...the female way of a cappella

Our little Christmas

Reflective, radiant, and full of shine—that's Christmas à la "Les Brünettes". The four singers venture to the other side of the emotional spectrum after their powerful album „4". They demonstrate that they can fill the stage with nothing but what defines their wonderful a cappella singing: four voices, perfectly harmonized, each at peace within itself. Enchanting lesser-known Christmas songs from Ireland, France, and Spain blend seamlessly with German classics, all freshly interpreted with wit and charm by the quartet. Jazz also plays a significant role that evening, whether through American Christmas swing tunes or a beautiful Joni Mitchell song.
